

Hong Kong Turmoil - a Feng Shui Perspective

Written by Jill Lander of Golden Elements

Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:52 - Last Updated Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:58

The recent events which have placed HK on the world stage is not only out of character with the essence of what it represents, it has sent ripples of anxiety through the world beyond.

HK is a respectful, considerate and compassionate city that welcomes its visitors with open arms and warmth of hospitality that other cities are able or willing to offer.

So what has caused such turmoil to escalate and why?

As human beings we live on cycles of energy – dependent on the circumstances will react accordingly to our environment.

Astrologically and elementally 2014 a year of the WOOD HORSE likened to a wild horse therefore we anticipated this would be a year of hidden surprises!

In mythology the Horse is often represented with nobility.

In Chinese astrology the Horse represents the mid day hours of 1- 3pm (Yang) is at its highest point. Therefore because of its association with the Sun, it is traditionally regarded as male works to its strengths being part of a construction.

HK'S CEO CY LEUNG educated in HK and the UK assumed office on July 1st the Water Dragon and on a powerful Fire Horse day Year. He appears to be influenced both astrologically and elementally. His birth year reflects exactly the wood horse year so his 60th year is proving to be his most challenging yet. The influence of the metal element indicates a strong and determined work ethic. The current events benefits from the current years wood horse energy. However the autumn season (7th August – 8th October) when the metal element comes into its full force will encounter the strongest competitive forces.

The challenge to HK's Govt erupted during the month of the WATER ROOSTER (8th – October 7th) is all about "commerce and communication" loves to debate an argument and likes to "ruffle feathers" but has little patience for causes that go out of steam pretty quickly, however similar to her mythical counterpart the Phoenix and strives to return from the ashes again and again with a renewed strength and determination.

The astrological alliance between the horse and rooster to say the least, these two create a situation neither will back down out of pride and so in the rooster month the elements of the Trojan Horse are weak therefore might the delicate rooster engaged in its overriding power to play to its strengths and cause confusion and mayhem but not destruction.

The directional forces of the year indicated a challenge to authority- to be directed primarily to those male and in power. The direction and location of the challenge is to the north, the east and the south. The challenge is to the north, the east and the south. The challenge is to the north, the east and the south.

Hong Kong Turmoil - a Feng Shui Perspective

Written by Jill Lander of Golden Elements

Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:52 - Last Updated Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:58

What HK has experienced during the past few weeks is unfamiliar to its people. Peace will prevail and HK will return to enjoy even greater awareness and a bright future - so Trojan Horses please stay contained in Happy Valley and Bea's go home to roost....make way for a more peaceful end to year beginning with the wood dog..... As we enter the WOOD DOG month of the year October the rooster now it has done its job by gaining attention will give way for greater understanding between all parties as the energy of this particular month respects loyal service, playing by the rules with a fair and straightforward approach.

I feel we may look forward to a more peaceful month in HK although China is coming under the wrath of a negative alignment of energy and watch out there may be further disruptions....

If you would like to help HK and enhance greater peace, please choose to keep the southeast of your home and the remainder of the year?

If you feel vulnerable to conflict and tension Feng Shui can help....email me

Hong Kong Turmoil - a Feng Shui Perspective

Written by Jill Lander of Golden Elements

Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:52 - Last Updated Tuesday, 14 October 2014 16:58
